About the Institute

The Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation, a research division of Carnegie Mellon University, specializes in the history of botany and all aspects of plant science and serves the international scientific community through research and documentation. To this end, the Institute acquires and maintains authoritative collections of books, plant images, manuscripts, portraits and data files, and provides publications and other modes of information service. The Institute meets the reference needs of botanists, biologists, historians, conservationists, librarians, bibliographers and the public at large, especially those concerned with any aspect of the North American flora.

Hunt Institute was dedicated in 1961 as the Rachel McMasters Miller Hunt Botanical Library, an international center for bibliographical research and service in the interests of botany and horticulture, as well as a center for the study of all aspects of the history of the plant sciences. By 1971 the Library's activities had so diversified that the name was changed to Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation. Growth in collections and research projects led to the establishment of four programmatic departments: Archives, Art, Bibliography and the Library.

IMPERIAL TWINE CLOTH for SHIRTING, &c.

By his Majesty's Letters Patent.

MERCHANTS and Families from India, &c. are most respectfully informed the above desirable Cloth for wear in both the Indies, being a fine substitute for flannel, as well as on the Continent, and in the cold climates, is sold exclusively at the Patentees, MILLARD and SONS' FOREIGN and BRITISH WAREHOUSE, No. 16, Cheapside, stamped with the Name, Number of the House, &c. by the Piece of 26 to 52 yards each, at 18d. 2s. 2s. 6d. &c. per yard; and in wide widths for Sheeting, and in entire cases of 30 and 60 pieces each, for exportation, and Genuine no where else whatever. Families from India, &c. will find it the most useful to adopt on change of climate, as well as for its economy, it possessing the beauty and utility of linen, with the advantages of the India Madras cloth, at nearly half the price.—Orders from the country, &c. for the above, together with every kind of Foreign and British Linens, and India and British Piece Goods, executed with fidelity and dispatch.

N.B. One of the most desirable properties of this Cloth is its never getting damp neither in travelling by land, nor in the longest sea voyages; its warmth is peculiar to itself, being a natural conductor, and not only the most comfortable to wear in the cold climates, but the most conducive to health in both the Indies, and the most desirable to wear by persons taking violent exercise, by Youth at School, and Gentlemen in the Army and Navy.
