About the Institute

The Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation, a research division of Carnegie Mellon University, specializes in the history of botany and all aspects of plant science and serves the international scientific community through research and documentation. To this end, the Institute acquires and maintains authoritative collections of books, plant images, manuscripts, portraits and data files, and provides publications and other modes of information service. The Institute meets the reference needs of botanists, biologists, historians, conservationists, librarians, bibliographers and the public at large, especially those concerned with any aspect of the North American flora.

Hunt Institute was dedicated in 1961 as the Rachel McMasters Miller Hunt Botanical Library, an international center for bibliographical research and service in the interests of botany and horticulture, as well as a center for the study of all aspects of the history of the plant sciences. By 1971 the Library's activities had so diversified that the name was changed to Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation. Growth in collections and research projects led to the establishment of four programmatic departments: Archives, Art, Bibliography and the Library.

E. F. DOUBNEY & SON, 49, Lombard-street. — Established A. D. 1864.

This day is published, under the Title of a

COMPANION
TO THE
BOTANICAL MAGAZINE;
BEING A JOURNAL

Destined to contain such interesting Botanical information, with occasional Figures, as does not come within the prescribed limits of the Magazine;

By W. J. HOOKER, LL. D. F. R. S. & L. S.,

And Regius Professor of Botany in the University of Glasgow.

The Proprietor of the BOTANICAL MAGAZINE has long felt anxious to combine with that work, (whose object has been, almost exclusively, to embrace figures and descriptions of such plants as are cultivated in our gardens;) a supplementary portion, destined to include various information relative to Botany and Botanical Travellers, and which may be attractive not only to the man of science, but to the General reader. Such a work, it is hoped, will be the more favourably received now that Dr. HOOKER has terminated the Botanical Miscellany, a periodical similar in its object to that now contemplated. This supplement will be edited by Dr. HOOKER, whose extensive correspondence and frequent intercourse with scientific Botanists and Travellers of almost every part of the world, will ensure a constant supply of novel and entertaining information.

A Number, consisting of two sheets of closely printed pages, accompanied by two plates, partially coloured, will appear every month, price 1s. 6d.; or if taken stitched with the Magazine, only 1s. A volume, distinct from that of the Magazine, consisting of nearly four hundred and fifty pages, accompanied by twenty-four plates, will thus be furnished to our present Subscribers, for the very moderate sum of 12s.

The eighth Number appears with the present Number of the BOTANICAL MAGAZINE; and those who wish to take this Supplementary portion will have the kindness to signify their intention through their respective booksellers.

The Subscription to the Botanical Magazine will thus be as follows:—

Price, coloured, (as heretofore,) 3s. 6d. per Number.
Ditto, uncoloured	3 0 ditto.
Ditto, coloured, and with the Companion	4 6 ditto.
Price of the Companion separate	1 6 ditto.
