About the Institute

The Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation, a research division of Carnegie Mellon University, specializes in the history of botany and all aspects of plant science and serves the international scientific community through research and documentation. To this end, the Institute acquires and maintains authoritative collections of books, plant images, manuscripts, portraits and data files, and provides publications and other modes of information service. The Institute meets the reference needs of botanists, biologists, historians, conservationists, librarians, bibliographers and the public at large, especially those concerned with any aspect of the North American flora.

Hunt Institute was dedicated in 1961 as the Rachel McMasters Miller Hunt Botanical Library, an international center for bibliographical research and service in the interests of botany and horticulture, as well as a center for the study of all aspects of the history of the plant sciences. By 1971 the Library's activities had so diversified that the name was changed to Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation. Growth in collections and research projects led to the establishment of four programmatic departments: Archives, Art, Bibliography and the Library.

Monsieur

M.^r Dumais doit se rendre chez vous jeudi prochain, au reste nous nous en rapportons parfaitement à ce que vous ferez à cet égard.

Je vous remercie des plantes que vous avez bien voulu me faire passer, et je ne puis accepter pour le moment l'offre obligeante que vous voulez bien me faire en m'invitant à visiter de nouveau votre herbier, je pars demain pour la Touraine; peut être y trouverai-je quelques plantes, mais j'ai peu d'espérance, la saison n'est plus favorable.

Je vous prie de vouloir bien garder les plantes que je vous ai fait passer, ce sera de doubler, je regrette seulement de n'avoir pas eu pour le moment rien de plus intéressant à vous offrir.

Veuillez bien Monsieur présenter mon hommage à ces Dames et agréer les salutations de votre serviteur
J. Crutten
