To the best of our knowledge, this item is in the public domain. We have provided this low-resolution, digitized version for research purposes. To inquire about publishing any images from this item, please contact the Institute.

About the Institute

The Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation, a research division of Carnegie Mellon University, specializes in the history of botany and all aspects of plant science and serves the international scientific community through research and documentation. To this end, the Institute acquires and maintains authoritative collections of books, plant images, manuscripts, portraits and data files, and provides publications and other modes of information service. The Institute meets the reference needs of botanists, biologists, historians, conservationists, librarians, bibliographers and the public at large, especially those concerned with any aspect of the North American flora.

Hunt Institute was dedicated in 1961 as the Rachel McMasters Miller Hunt Botanical Library, an international center for bibliographical research and service in the interests of botany and horticulture, as well as a center for the study of all aspects of the history of the plant sciences. By 1971 the Library's activities had so diversified that the name was changed to Hunt Institute for Botanical Documentation. Growth in collections and research projects led to the establishment of four programmatic departments: Archives, Art, Bibliography and the Library.

FLORA LONDINENSIS*:

A NEW BOTANIC WORK.

Intended to comprehend all the PLANTS which grow wild in Great-Britain, beginning first with those which are found in the Environs of London.

By WILLIAM CURTIS.

This Work is of a Folio size, each Number contains six Plates, having in general one Plant on a Plate, with six Pages, and sometimes more, of Letter-Press; the Plants are represented of their natural Size, and in their true Colours; in the Letter-Press are given first the Linnaean and English Names, next the Synonyma of the most interesting Authors, then follows a minute Description of the Plant in Latin and English, which is succeeded by an Account of the History, Peculiarities, Oeconomy, and Uses of the Plant, either selected from the most approved Authors on Medicine, Agriculture, Rural Oeconomy, and other Arts; or furnished from the Observations of the Author and his Friends.

Published by the AUTHOR, at his Botanic Garden, and B. WHITE and SON, Fleet-Street, where any of the Numbers from I. to LVI. may be had, either plain or coloured, as also the following:

The Subscription to permanent Subscribers is to be considered as due that Day Twelve Months on which they first subscribed.

Subscribers intending to discontinue their Subscription, are to signify their Intentions of so doing, previous to the Expiration of the Term for which they subscribed, or otherwise to be considered as Subscribers for another Year.

To prevent the Intrusion of improper Company, and to gratify the Curiosity of occasional Visitors, such as are not Subscribers will be admitted to see the Garden, on paying Two Shillings and Sixpence at their Entrance, which will be returned should they subscribe; or, if one of a Party subscribes, the whole of the Party's Entrance-Money will be returned.

It being the Proprietor's Wish to keep his Garden in perfectly neat Order, he entreats that none will bring Dogs with them, tread on the Borders, or suffer those under their Care to do so.

Having at his former Garden, Lambeth-Marsh, suffered considerably from the Depredations of the Inconsiderate or Designing, who have made Bouquets of the Flowers, taken Cuttings of valuable Plants, and carried off unique Specimens, he presumes to caution such as visit the Garden, against a Practice so contrary to its established Rules, and so unfavourable to the Purposes of its Institution.

Much Inconvenience having arisen from lending Books belonging to the Library, to Subscribers who have requested the Use of them, that Practice will in future be discontinued.

The Garden will be open every Day, from Six to Eight, from the 1st of April to the 29th of September, and from Eight to Four, the Remainder of the Year.

A Catalogue of the Library, and of such Plants as can be spared to Subscribers, with their Prices, will be ready for Delivery the Beginning of February.

MR. CURTIS finding it necessary to take in a Partner to assist him in the management of his BOTANIC GARDEN at Brompton, begs leave to apprise his Subscribers, that he has entered into an engagement of that kind with Mr. WILLIAM SALISBURY; and he flatters himself that their joint efforts will contribute to render the Garden a still greater source of useful instruction and elegant amusement, and more deserving of their encouragement.

They have it in contemplation also, to form a Collection for Sale of such Plants (or the Seeds of such) as are figured in the Botanical Magazine, as well as other rare and curious sorts from their Botanic Garden, not easily to be obtained elsewhere; orders for which, as far as practicable, addressed to Messrs. CURTIS and SALISBURY, Botanic Garden, Brompton, will even now be executed with the greatest care and dispatch.

Mr. CURTIS respectfully entreats that all those whose subscriptions are in arrear, will pay the same to Mr. SALISBURY, who will wait on them for that purpose.

THE BOTANICAL MAGAZINE,

THOUGH so cheap, was conducted with such Care and Judgment by the late Mr. WILLIAM CURTIS, as to give it an eminent Station amongst Works of Science. The Expence attending its Publication allowed, from the first, but a very small Profit, which has been progressively diminishing; insomuch, that Mr. CURTIS had in his Life-time found it necessary to form a Plan for advancing the Price. Since this, all the incidental Expences have greatly increased; the Price of Paper, in particular, has been more than doubled. It is now, therefore, become impracticable to carry on the Work upon the same Terms, and the present Publisher is under the disagreeable Necessity of raising the Price.—To do this, with as little Disadvantage as possible to the Purchasers, it has been determined to add another Plate to each Number.

The Public are therefore requested to take Notice, that the future Numbers of the BOTANICAL MAGAZINE will contain Four Plates, and that the Price will be One Shilling and Sixpence. The Numbers already published, containing Three Plates each, will hereafter be sold for One Shilling and Threepence.

MAY 1, 1801.

Printed by S. Couchman, Throgmorton-Street.
